SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.

THE TREATY AND MESSAGE. The treaty of annexation between the United States and Hawaii was made public on Feb. 16, but not with the consent of the Senate.

The Hawaiian commissioners have consented to leave to the future and to the just and benevolent purposes of the United States the adjustment of all such questions.

The restoration of the Queen to the throne is undesirable if not impossible, and unless actively supported by the United States would be accompanied by serious disaster.

Only two courses are now open. One is the establishment of a protectorate by the United States, and the other is annexation full and complete.

Secretary Foster confirms the President's statement that the revolution was entirely unexpected so far as this Government is concerned.

THE PROVISIONS. In Article I, the Government of Hawaii cedes from the date of the exchange of ratifications to the United States, absolutely, all rights of sovereignty of whatsoever kind.

The will of the late Mrs. Whitney was filed for probate in New York on Feb. 15. It disposes of a personal estate estimated at $2,300,000 and real estate amounting to $750,000.

all revenue from the same, except such part as may be used or occupied for the civil, military or naval purposes of the United States, or may be assigned to the use of the local Government, shall be used solely for the benefit of the inhabitants of the Hawaiian Islands for educational and other public purposes.

Article III. continues: Until Congress shall otherwise provide the existing Government and the Hawaiian laws are continued, subject to the paramount authority of the United States.

Article IV. prohibits the further immigration of Chinese laborers into the Hawaiian Islands until Congress shall otherwise provide.

Article V. the United States assumes the existing public debt of the Hawaiian Islands with the proviso that the liability shall in no case exceed $3,250,000.

Article VI. agrees to pay to the late Queen Liliuokalani an annual pension of $20,000 during her life, and to the Princess Kaiulani a lump sum of $150,000.

THE DOCUMENTS LAID BEFORE THE SENATE on the Hawaiian question contain the hitherto unpublished protest of Queen Liliuokalani, addressed to President Harrison.

PRINCESS KAIULANI PROTESTS. Princess Kaiulani sends the following address to the American people: "Four years ago, at the request of Thurston, then Hawaiian Cabinet Minister, I was sent away to England to be educated privately and fitted for the position which by the Constitution of Hawaii I was to inherit."

the inauguration of Cleveland, then George Washington, and probably make a personal appeal to the new President. She expressed the hope that she might gain the sympathy of the American people.

The princess knew nothing of the affair except what she had read in the newspapers. She declined to express any opinion on Mr. Harrison's message recommending annexation, or whether she would accept monetary consideration in case it was done.

Princess Kaiulani is tall and slender, with a more thoughtful and deliberate air than might be expected in a school girl.

When asked if she would return to England after her visit to America, the Princess answered: "Yes, if I am successful. I will be of age next year, and then I will carry out my original intention, for which the Hawaiian Legislature voted $1000, which was to visit Queen Victoria."

THE PRINCESS SHOOK HANDS warmly with the correspondent, thanked him for the sympathy shown by her cause, and asked him to convey her thanks to the American press for her journey to America.

CONSUL PRATT PROTESTS. F. S. Pratt, Hawaiian Consul-General at San Francisco, whose wife is a descendant of the Kamehamehas, has written a protest to the President and Senate of the United States against the proposed conveyance of the crown lands of Hawaii to the United States.

1. The crown lands constitute a trust created by Kamehameha III. out of his personal and individual estate, to maintain the state and dignity of the Hawaiian crown.

2 and 3. This trust has been scrupulously observed. The rents from the crown lands have never been treated as public revenue.

far. He realized that owing to the absence of the President and Secretary of State, he must submit the Queen's case to the Senators themselves, and next day he would begin work.

Mr. Neumann spent some time with Assistant Secretary Wharton, who told him the State Department could now do nothing for his cause, and referred him to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate.

"You are not in it," said Senator Stewart to Mr. Neumann, "and I do not see how you can hope to gain anything. How does it come that you are against annexation anyhow?"

Neumann would have made a much better impression in Washington if he had hurried on there as quickly as he could and had stuck to his original instructions to ask for the restoration of Liliuokalani to the throne.

Neumann said he was a free agent who could use his own judgment. He said he did not propose to fight annexation as apparently the time for that had passed.

Mr. Macfarlane was in New York with the Princess and Thos. Wilkinson of Honolulu. Mr. Macfarlane is reported as saying annexation was premature, and not supported by a majority even of foreign residents of the islands.

February 20 it is reported the opposition to Hawaiian annexation at Washington was crystallizing and solidifying. There was some doubt of the treaty's ratification in the two short weeks remaining of the session.

A good two-thirds majority was claimed for the treaty, but now it is said the majority do not wish to be hurried.
